Eastman is not only a Random House I Can Read It All by Myself Beginner Book for beginning readers, but it is also enormously popular with younger children who love having the amusing story read to them again and again. Both the illustrations and the words in Are You My Mother! stay strictly focused on one thing: a baby birdĂĂĂ search for his mother. While a mother bird is away from her nest, the egg in the nest hatches. The baby bird's first words are, "Where is my mother?" The little bird jumps out of the nest, tumbles to the ground and begins looking for his mother. Since he doesn't know what his mother looks like, he begins by approaching different animals, and asking each of them, "Are you my mother?" He talks to a kitten, a hen, a cow, and a dog, but he can't find his mother. The baby bird thinks the red boat in the river or the big plane in the sky might be his mother, but they don't stop when he calls to them. Finally, he sees a big red steam shovel. The baby bird is so sure that the steam shovel is his mother that he eagerly hops into its shovel, only to be terrified when it gives a big snort and starts moving. To the little bird's surprise, the shovel rises higher and higher and he is deposited back into his very own nest. Not only that, but he has found his mother, who has just returned from searching for worms for him. What makes this simple story so effective are the humorous illustrations A tale that has a lot of repetition. The illustrations are made in a limited color palette: shredded brown with touches of yellow and red. The illustrations similar to the cartoons focus on the baby's padassarus and their research, without strange details. The brevity of the story, the controlled vocabulary, and the simple phrase structure is not in the right for an unhappy reader. Most of the 64 -page book pages have only one to four brief phrases that accompany the illustrations. The repeat of words and phrases and the clues provided by the illustrations also support the initial reader. The p.d. Eastman worked closed with Dr. SUASS (Theodor Geisel) in vain projects and people believed that Dr. Suess and P.D. Eastman is the same man, which is not true. Philip Dey Eastman was an author, illustrator and filmmaker. After graduating at the Faculty of Amherst in 1933, he studied at the National Academy of Design. Eastman worked in the movie theStarian and Various Companies, including Walt Disney and Warner Brothers. Under the name of P.D. Eastman, he has created a rġie of novice books that have remained popular over the years. Some of his starting books include: GO, dog go!, The best nest, big dog. . . . Swittrer, beat your wings and Sam and Firefly. The lemon and mouse by Jerry Pinkney, the winner of the 2010 Randolph Caldecott medal for photo books illustration, is a wordless image book. You and your son to like to "read" the images and tell the story together. Dr.'s photo books Seass and the initial readers' books are always a delight and the Rie Mercy Watson for King and Dicamillo's early readers is full of divergence.
